Domestic & General

Advent completed the acquisition of Domestic & General for £523.9m in December 2007 following a successful offer for its shares listed on the London Stock Exchange.

Domestic & General is one of the UK's leading specialist providers of extended warranty plans for domestic electrical goods. The company has multiple opportunities to increase UK sales by attracting new buyers of insurable products and by capturing a strong propensity for renewal across its customer base. Europe, Australia and Asia offer scope for international expansion as the market for extended warranties is significantly under-developed.
